Their task is to assess the available market data, design the next steps and implement them via the simulation interface. Participants will develop a brief but vivid understanding of the role of marketing and its workings.

Basic terms and insights that are used in digital marketing are given, so that we are all on the same page once we get going.

- Search Engine Marketing (SEO) (3.5h)

Learning how your website can be placed higher in the Google organic results through examples and optimization techniques.

- Analytics (5.5h)

Anyone can measure what's going on in their website, but this course is all about understanding what you need to keep track of within Google Analytics.

- Media Attribution Modelling for Digital Marketing Campaigns (3h)

Each digital marketing channel has a differing effect on company performance (i.e., sales, new customers acquisition, maintenance of old customers). But how can digital marketing practitioners assess the effectiveness of each channel separately and in combination? How should they invest limited resources across the various channels in the future, and can they use past information on the effectiveness of digital channels to predict the likely future outcomes of different digital marketing mixtures? This session presents a methodology that can help practitioners answer the above questions. Utilizing a simulation game participants will learn how to apply an easily deployable statistical technique for assessing the effectiveness of their efforts and employ historical information from past campaigns to predict future outcomes. Moreover, they will have the opportunity to use A/B testing for assessing the validity of their predictions before launching new campaigns in the market.

- Digital Transformation Tools (7h)

Marketing and Advertising are business roles that are still changing rapidly. Beyond digital marketing and advertising, more tools are becoming available throughout the world that will change not only how brands communicate with consumers, but will also allow the automation between all business operations and marketing communications.

Being a perfectionist, he is obsessed with UI and enamored by the evolution of Front-end development and the impact it has on the end-user in terms of marketing. If left unattended, his twisted mind will keep coding that tiny little pixel at that part of the website that nobody looks, until it is perfect. The reason is simple. When it comes to marketing, every single little pixel has it's purpose. His skills include graphics as well but he prefers the mind numbing thrill of creating by code.

He is currently working at Socialab, designing and developing custom projects for clients such as Lidl, Septona, UNCHR and others, by focusing on the project's main goal while implementing next generation UI/UX techniques.
